Organized by Centre for Interdisciplinary Research in Basic Sciences,
Jamia Millia Islamia, New Delhi- 25.

Dear Colleagues,

It is an honor and Pleasure to invite you to the Interdisciplinary Science Conference-2007 on Recent Trends in Research in Biological Sciences, to be held on 7 December 2007 in Jamia Millia Islamia, New Delhi.

This is the first time such conference is being held in Jamia. Keeping in mind the prestige of the event we all are working hard to make it memorable and successful. A scientific program is being planned by the organizing committee in consultant with the Advisors, which consists of an exciting series of invited talks delivered by the eminent scientists. This will provide a common platform to scientists working in different field to have fruitful interactions. Detailed scientific program is given on page 5. We, in the organizing committee are trying our best to make your visit comfortable and enjoyable. To confirm your participation please complete the registration form and send us preferably by e-mail.

We hope you will join us to make this event a grand success.

We are looking forward to meeting you in December 2007.

Chairman

Information about Centre for Interdisciplinary Research in Basic Sciences (CIRBSc)

UGC gave a special grant for establishing a new research centre with an objective of providing a common platform for the researchers from the various fields of basic sciences, who are interested to implement their ideas to solve different biological problems. For example there are plenty of problems which biology and physics have to offer each other. Same is true for chemistry, computer science and mathematics. Therefore, CIRBSc is trying to bridge up the gap between biologists and people from other disciplines. This conference is a very first step to fulfill the aim and scope of the centre.

Registration details

The registration forms should be filled and submitted to the organizers via e-mail or post. Since number of participants will be limited, selection will be based on the first come first serve basis.
