International Congress of Asian Philosophical Association is organized by the Asian Philosophical Association. Although the organization was established by some philosophers the Asian Philosophical Association is devoted for Asian studies. As such it organizes congress every other year and regional conferences and symposia. The Seventh International Congress of the Asian Philosophical Association is planned to be held in India at universities as:

DAY 1: Jamia Millia University, New Delhi

DAY 2: Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi

Call for Papers:

The conference aims at understanding the phenomenon of sustainable development but in order to give a meaningful expression to this concept the point of departure will be knowledge in general but more specifically scientific knowledge. We therefore urge the participants to examine the possible consequences of this concept as knowledge based phenomenon in humanities, the value systems and civilizations of the Asian continent. The conference is structured around following broad themes:

CONFERENCE THEMES

- I. Philosophical Foundations
  - A. Knowledge and Society
  - B. Knowledge and Economics, knowledge based economy
- II. Historical Roots
  - A. Asian Roots
  - B. Other Historical Roots
- III. Economic Approaches
  - A. Asian Systems
  - B. Western Systems
  - C. Alternative Paradigms
- IV. Cultural and Anthropological Considerations
  - A. Asian Communities
  - B. Other Approaches

Authors are advised to submit their full paper on the conference theme electronically in MS Word format to Prof. Shahid Ahmed, Director, CNJS, Email: shahec@gmail.com and sahmed@jmi.ac.in by 15th December, 2013. Selected paper authors are expected to bear their travel cost. The organizers will bear expenses of local hospitality. For further updates, please refer to <http://www.asianpa.net/sayfa/17>.
